

Nebraska Office of the CIO Teammates Win StateScoop Awards

March 24th, 2025 (Lincoln, NE) – The Nebraska Office of the Chief Information Officer is proud to announce that two teammates won awards as part of the StateScoop 50. The StateScoop 50 is an award program run by the Scoop News Group that honors influential people in state government information technology programs.

The following individuals received awards as part of the StateScoop 50:

Chief Information Officer Dr. Matthew McCarville received the GoldenGov: State Executive of the Year award for his work in innovations at the executive level.

IT Supervisor Bryan Falk won the State Leadership of the Year award due to his work in implementing new technologies, strategies, and IT programs.

Additionally, the State of Nebraska Judge E-Signature project for the Nebraska Judicial Branch won the State IT Innovation of the Year award.

The Office of the CIO thanks Dr. McCarville and Mr. Falk for their amazing service to the agency which earned this recognition.

More information on the winners and the award program can be found on the StateScoop website at <https://statescoop.com/list/winners-2025-statescoop-50-awards/>